The baseball game at the Polo Grounds yesterday between the New-York and Cincinnati teams proved to be one of the liveliest contests of the season, and the result was in doubt until the last man had been put out in the final inning, in fact, a hit by Chamberlain in the ninth finaling would have won the game for the men from the Queen City. inning would have won the game for the men from Queen City. It was New-York's fourth consecutive victory over Cincinnati, and Captain Comiskey and his men felt chigrined at the result.

Still there was no reason for their wild shouts of disapproval at Umpire Lynch in the ninth inning, for that official interpreted the rules just the same as any sensible man would have dene. In fact, a man whose thinking machine was not rusty could not have thought otherwise. In this inning Browning sent a difficult fly just back of second base, but by an almost superhuman effort Doyle managed to sprint fast enough to get under the bail, and jumping into the air, he caught the flying globe. He lost his balance, however, and felt to the ground, but still held the ball. The mementum was so great that after striking the ground he folled over and over, and his arm becoming twisted under his head, he dropping the ball after rolling over for the second time. The umpire, of course, allowed the cartch as the rules stipulate, and that gatch saved the day for New-York.

Most people probably imagine that Tiernan's home run wan the game for New-York, and while it did in fact, still there was something which went before which had a more direct bearing on the result. Those who have noticed how poorly Rusie pitches after a long run may have observed Chamberlain's record yesterday. In the third inning Chamberlain had a stiff run of three bases, and a stomach-disturbing slide. His out was the third, and he went right in to pitch before had fairly recovered his breath. The result was five runs for

There is a lively quarrel in the Amateur Baseball There is a lively quarrel in the Admiture Baseball and and-caple adjustment is not seen arrived at. The trouble arose out of the playing of third baseman Stanhope by the Staten Island Athletic Club nine. The other teams objected to Stuihope, saying that the six games in which he had played should be thrown out of the record. A meeting was held yesterday afternoon to try to settle the trouble. The result was a deadlock between the clubs on Staten Island and the clubs in New-Jersey on the other. The Faule-wood Field Club supported the New-Jersey A. C. team in its protest against Stanhope, while the Staten Island Cricket Club voted with their fellow Athletics.

No progress could be made, so it was eventually decided to leave the matter to a committee of two, each faction to appoint a delegate. In case this committee cannot agree, then John B. Day, or some other well-posted base-ball man, will be called upon to settle the difference.

SHOTS FOLLOW A "GROWLER" FIGHT

A murderons shooting narray followed a drunken quarrel in One hundred and tenth st., between Amsterdam-ave, and the Boulevard, late on Thursday night. Owen J. Collins, a young laborer of No. 218 West One-hundred and tenth at., quarrellest with George Becker, alias Marks, driver of an neli-cart, whose home is at No. 2'4 West One hundred and nath st. The remainder will be provided with shelter in tents They had been drailing beer from a "growler" in put up in the Eattery and City Hall parks, in Wash impany with other young men, and Collins refused to pay for more beer. Becker applied insulting epithets to Collins, who retorted in kind. At length Collins strick Decker in the mouth, whereupon Becker drew a revolver and fired two shots. One bullet passed into Collins's andomen and the other went brough his hand. Collins was besteved to be dying in the Manhattan Hospital yesterday. The police shooting, An alarm, directleg a police search, described him as "twenty six tracs old, live feet and eight inches high, with dark complexion, and wearing a bine coat and bile hannel soirt. It was expected that he would soon carrender as be caught, as he had no money with which to have the city.

ADDISON CAMMICK NOT TO LEAVE THE STREET. Wall street has been amused in the last few day by reports that Addison Cammack, the well-known bear leader, had seriously resolved to eschew specula tion. It was told in print yesterday that he had determined to retire from Stock Exchange hannts and rest peacefully in chateaus in France, castles in Spain. It seemed hard to imagine that certain recent purchases to cover short contracts that were generally credited to Mr. Cammack should persuade that shrewd centleman that a short in-terest was no longer desired in Wall Street even by the bull manipulators. Speculative circles would have put on mourning if Mr. Cammack had not been found yesterday to be utubly moving from one office to another where he is known often to give out his orders. Mr. Cammack himself said to a Tribune reporter that the published story about his contemplated refirement was without a shadow foundation in truth. A story is told of the depression which seized Mr.

Cammack years ago when he was wont to meet William Cammack years ago when he was wont to meet William II. Vanderbill now and then in an uptown brokerage office in Fifth-ave.

"I'm through with it; I'm geing to stay out of the Sirect," Mr. Cammack declared.

"That's all right," Mr. Vanderbill is said to have replied.

"I've said that myself a hundred times!"

It is suspected that a change in market quotations may restore the bear leader's nerves and furnish any one who desires it with a text for a stry regarding Mr. Cammack's vigorous re-entrance into the speculative arena.

MISCELLANEOUS.

"OUR CHAUNCEY."-" Our Chauncey "is Chauncey M. Depew, the masterly leader of the Harrison force at Minneapolis, who made the principal speech there renominating the President. Mr. Depew is acknowledged to be the foremost of American orators, brilliant, sparkling, sound and sagacious. His after-dimer speeches are both the models and the despair of his rivals. "Our Chaucey" is a poem, by Isaac it. Bromley, illustrated profusely and comically by Dan Beard and C. D. Gibson, two of the best pen-and-lak artists in New-York City. It is a delicious piece of tus, and it is moreover thoroughly possessed of a spirit of genial and sincere admiration for its elequent subject. It is doubtful whether Mr. Bromley has ever done his wit more credit than in these dushing, rollicking and brilliant verses. Retail price, St a copy.
